Addressing capacity is probably the number one challenge in the NHS at the moment

THE OPPORTUNITY?

- Efficiency and pathway optimisation will be a key priority for HCPs
 - Your central value offering should focus on driving efficiency, cost improvement and freeing up staff time
 - POTENTIAL THREAT ☐ Higher use of the private sector ■ This may create new stakeholders in your pathway and clinical area

Access to care

PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS Implement professional standards and regulate NHS managers, ensuring those who commit serious misconduct can never do so again and adults through Labour's first term

8,500 new mental health staff to treat children

THE OPPORTUNITY? Under Labour It's probably more likely that a pay deal can be reached with the BMA, and further strikes increased use of pharmacists and AHPs in primary care pathways, and the ongoing use (with some regulation) of physician associates in your audience base

Like the investment in capacity, the extra staff promised will take time to come through. And in the meantime, expect shorter term measures like the
